

LAMP AND SHIELD

The camera man looks for pictures that say
"I am St. Andrews!"

The editors throw together the I'S into
The Lamp and Shield

And if you say, "Here I am!"

Then the job is done.

Lamp and Shield

St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Vol. 6, 1967

Everyone is probably expecting us to put forth a big fancy theme—one that would concern itself with some big concept or a worn-out ideal. Well, we're not! Because if we did this we would be fitting everyone into a mold and that would be an insult. Oh, we could talk about mutuality, sincerity, responsibility and all of those other dollar-two-eighty words. But these words only represent the way we talk about life, not the way we really live it. So, instead of having a theme built around some high falootin abstract terms, we have attempted to present real people—you and me—in real situations. If we must claim a theme, we'll call it I. Through the pictures and words that we have selected to remember 1966-67 at St. Andrews, we hope that you will find the "I" that is you.

Here I am . . . The tools, the voices, many hands and feet are all available. The problem is what to do with them. I ask for help . . . and when I am willing to be taught, advised, guided . . . I grow and sometimes even create.

The people I know in the peanut-gallery, on the front row, those asleep on the back, parents, and that special person who signs my letters "with love", somehow affect my performance. Their applause in its many forms—a snappy cheer, a silent smile, a hearty pat on the back—drives me to those impossible heights that become possible.

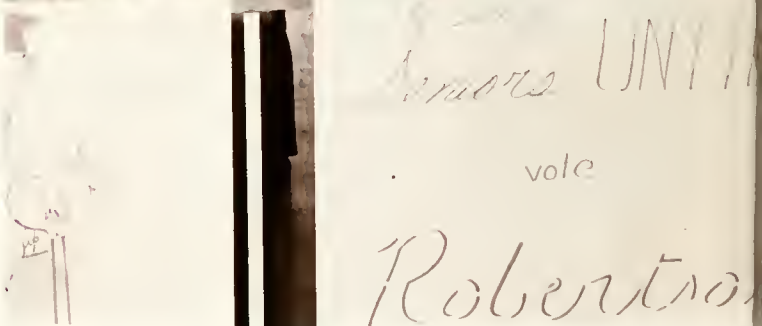

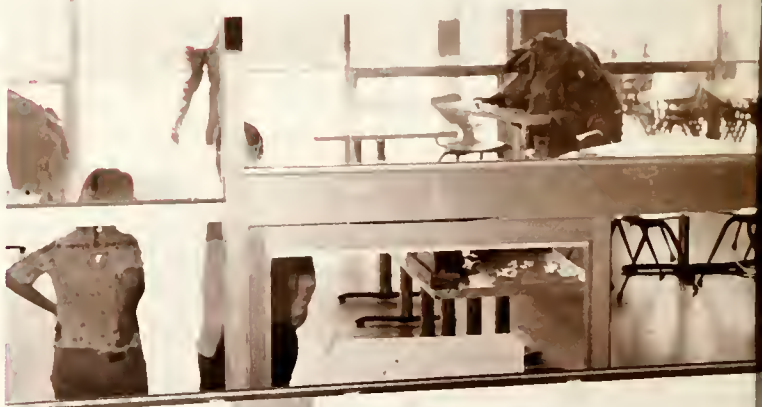

Lots of times I want to do it by myself . . . but then the problems of student government, the hard questions, and the stubborn straps demand more hands than two.

Where I go, where I "hang out", is a part of my personality, but what I do once I am there is the real me...

Sometimes I am romantic... even to the point of cannibalism. I fall in love easily... and not always with people... and the stuff I bring over the threshold ranges from puppy dogs to dead friends.

Attention:
NATIONAL TERRORISM
WEEK

(NOVEMBER 20-26)
ORGANIZE, TERRORIZE
VANDALIZE

Sometimes I am crazy in a happy sort of way. My friends understand and participate . . . willingly and unwillingly. At times I go to the wildest extremes—like calling a fake fire-drill. The gate locked and the photographer waiting, I anticipate being thrown in the shower . . . and then I get wet.

Sometimes I am a student.
Sometimes concerned, I take a stand for civil rights . . . for peace . . . "responsible living in a self-governing community."
I go beyond myself and find allies and enemies . . . I remain faithful . . . I give up . . . I start over.

And sometimes, I am glad that I have been at . . . well, that I am St.
Andrews. It's me.

"If I blow this one I'll quit!"

Women's Intramurals

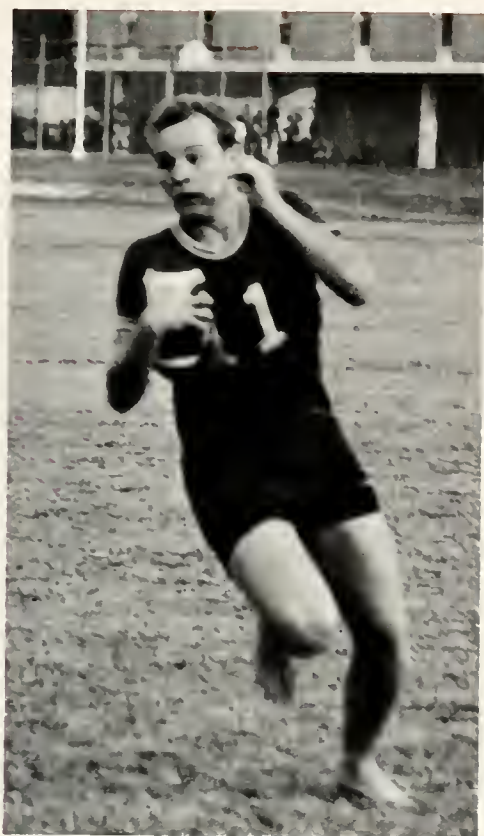

"This is so tiring. Underwater basketweaving wasn't this bad!"

"Men, did somebody say men? Where? Where?"

"You hit it and I'll pray, Maggie."

Men's Intramurals

"How's the chawin' these days, Willie?"

"*#$%?, I know I'm caught. I wish I had my angel sandals."

"I told you once, I told you twice. You can't have it. It's my security."

Well, if it isn't the gruesome twosome, Lud and J. Rod.

"Yep Bill, owe it all to clean livin'; no booze, no women, lots of sleep."

Mom picked it out.

Damn, lit the filter again.

An adventure in "good" eating.

Ge-ne-va, I just met a girl named Geneva.

"Then we go over to Library and blow it up . . ."

Bubble-gum Pink and the Seven Dwarfs.

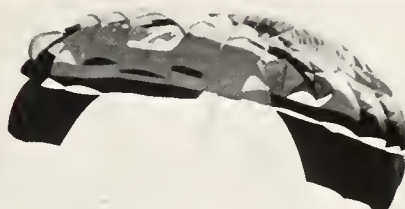

Our group had 21 % fewer teeth.
Would you believe . . . Dean of Women?

Hee, hee, hee. We just got another thousand clams out of a 1908 Flora Mac grad.

Who needs Christmas gifts when you've got love.

Watch it billow like a beautiful poisonous flower.

"Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses."

"And now fans, for my next daring, death—defying stunt . . ."

"I know, but I'll be beautiful when I take the rest of them down."

That's right honey, I'm not known as "Tricky Ricky" for nothing.

The eating man's filter.

The best of two eras.

In Memoriam . . . Edward Lee King

Eddie's death is very tragic because it faces us with a several-faceted sense of unfulfilled potential. For example, many of us did not really know Eddie very well; and our loss is a loss of what-might-have-been—a sense of loss increased by the witness of those who knew him well and whose comments suggest to us that we would have benefited from knowing him. The death of any young person is always tragic because it eliminates possibilities. Eddie was a very gifted student whose mind showed promise of great potentiality—he was, in fact, the most gifted of a gifted group of students, the Vardell Scholars of the class 1970. In this respect, and in other respects, Eddie was a witness to all of us who have suffered little that a man can suffer much and still emerge a productive person. To such a list of the ways in which Eddie's death is tragic we must add the recognition that two parents have lost an only offspring whose life had called-forth immeasurable involvement and affection—for such an awful loss there is no compensation save the poignant memories of deep and meaningful relationships.

In Memoriam . . . Roy Sandidge

Roy's death was tragic. As one of you has expressed it to me, "No one knows what he might have done if he had lived." The tragedy of unfulfilled potential. If Roy had not reached the point of creating significantly, he was clearly a creative person, in potential. If he had not been able fully to define "Real" with a capital "R" he was making serious attempts and had eliminated some less than significant alternatives in his persistent quest.

We regret the loss of his influence in this community—his candid and critical comment upon our common life—his rare good humor—his questioning of faith healthily combined with provisional affirmations—his involvement with and concern for persons who have been denied our obvious blessings—his quest for a meaningful freedom from deadly conformity—and his obvious if guarded love for persons and for life.

The Man Behind the Machine Works for Springs...

So do 18,000 other people.

In 19 plants and 25 sales offices.

And then there's the Computer Center. And the administrative offices. The Fabric Design Department. The Engineering Department. The Foundry. And the Machine Shop.

To say nothing of the Corporate Development Division. The research labs. The Executive Offices. The production and sales divisions. And things like that.

The man behind the machine (the one in the picture) is working on the control panel of a new cloth bleaching range.

Complicated? Sometimes. Challenging, too.

But interesting. Because things are happening in textiles. New plants. New Machinery. New processes. New finishes. New products. New end uses.

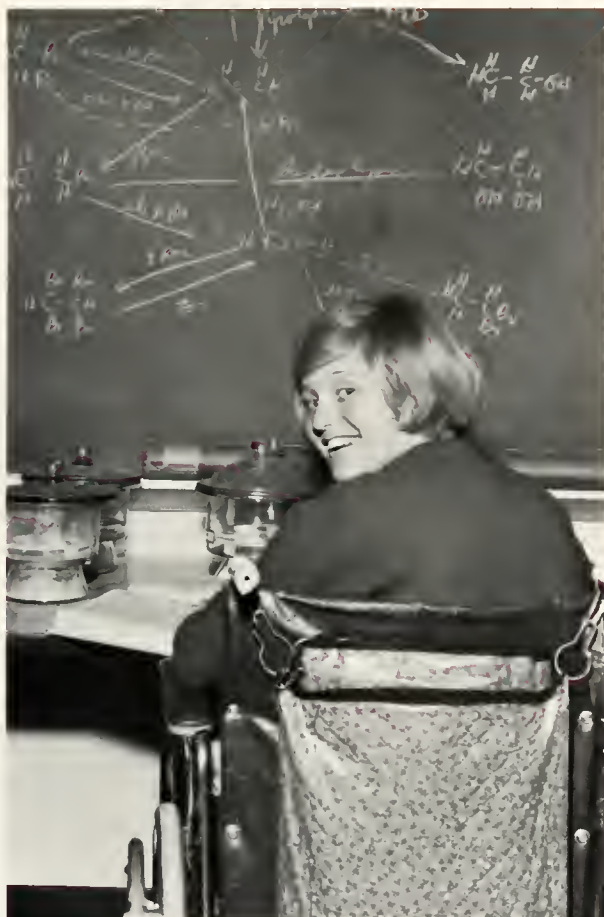

Textiles. Where the action is.

Ask the man from S.P.R.I.N.G.S.

Springs Mills, Inc.
